Teaming with Microbes

Wed, 03/24/2010 - 17:58 -- katecopsey

I had the benefit of interviewing Jeff Lowenfels for my radio show today. The show will be aired in a few weeks (sat. apr 3, 10am www.americaswebradio.com [1]) but we talked about the relationship of the microbes with veggie roots and plant roots and how to make the most of the little critters. The chat was able to clarify for me how companion planting probably works, as well as why pH is important for the survival of the microbes which turn chemicals into a useable form for the plants. I will post a link to the full blog post and story, when I have assimilated all the chemistry and microbiology!
