How to Plant a Garden in the Snow

Wed, 12/22/2010 - 04:14 -- Roger Doiron

We know that when life gives us lemons, we're supposed to make lemonade, but what can gardeners make when life gives them snowstorms and freezing temperatures? Here's a short video showing how my sons and I recently answered the question. We had a lot of fun making it and I hope you enjoy it too. If so, please share it with your email and social networking contacts. Unlike some of the other players in the food world*, KGI doesn't have an advertising budget so we count on our members to help us spread the word. Fast food companies spend $4.2 billion per year on advertising.
