

seed starting basics

I have created a very basic explanation about seed starting [1] on my blog.

I had a very odd experience yesterday while at a garden center (which shall remain nameless). A young woman walked in while I was looking at some potting items and asked the sales person if she could have some help obtaining some things to start some vegetables from seed. The salesperson simply said "That aisle over there" and went back to her computer screen. The young woman looked a little sad and started to walk over to the aisle in question where I was standing also. She looked discouraged and confused.

I'm a natural talker so asked her what she was up to and she explained that she had received a beginner seed assortment for the holidays and wanted to see about getting them to grow. She had never gardened before and didn't really know where to start.

We talked for a little while and I hope that I helped her out a little bit. So sister, this blog's for you.
