Answer::

I came across this helpful little seed starting guide on the website of Johnny's Selected Seeds. It's pretty cool: you plug in your last frost date and the table automatically calculates the optimal time for starting seeds and setting out seedlings for your hardiness zone. If you're not sure when your average last frost date is, this webpage will help you find out if you're based in the US. Give the guide a whirl and let me know what you think: seedstarting2.xls Download Photo credit: dyogi
