

ENERS
N A L

Wed, 06/16/2010 08:27 - Roger Doren

Introduction:

Do you have more fresh greens than even Popeye could handle? Then, why not make spinach cubes? The process is easy: steam the spinach until wilted, pat it dry, and pack it into ice cube trays. Pop a cube out to add to a sauce, soup or omelet or at some other time when a Popeyesque effort is required. Ice cube trays also work well for freezing pesto. Creative Commons photo credit: Pinprick

Image (optional):

Crops:

spinach [1]

Preparation:

freeze [2]

Recipe Type:

food preservation techniques [3]

Group content visibility:

Use group defaults

Promoted text:

Make Your Own Frozen Spinach Cubes

---

Source URL: <http://kgi.org/recipes/frozen-spinach-cubes>

Links:

[1] <http://kgi.org/crops/spinach>

[2] <http://kgi.org/preparation/freeze>

[3] <http://kgi.org/recipe-type/food-preservation-techniques>