Question Details (optional):

So my kiddo and I started some apple seeds we had saved from apples that we used for applesauce. We put them in between wet paper towels in a ziplock, and now some of them have sprouted...

Question #1 - Will they even turn into fruit bearing trees? We did Fuji, Pink Lady, and Granny Smith.

Question #2 - if they will, what do I do with them now? Do I plant them indoors or outdoors? In pots or in the ground? I would like to wait on putting them in the ground, as we live with my in-laws and I would rather plant them in the ground once we have our own place...

Thanks all!
