Heirloom Seeds - Sources

Mon, 03/25/2013 - 22:19 -- Miss Lady Bug

Get your heirloom seeds! I love vintage varieties that have been handed down for generations.

A large percentage of gardeners order their seeds through mail order companies, and we all love receiving the newest catalogs. Get yours in time for seasonal planting by exploring some of the sources below.

I have previously ordered from the top three listings below and all three provided high germination rates.

Botanical Interests is my favorite (family-owned) seed company and we have teamed up as affiliates. I love the fact that they provide beautiful seed packets filled with growing advice, facts, tips, recipes, and quality seeds.

They offer unique fundraisers for schools, churches, and garden clubs. They also host interesting gardening blogs: In the Garden [1], Creative Inspirations [2], and Seed to Saucepan [3] (chef featured articles).

Check out Miss Lady Bug's Garden [4] for the latest in heirloom adventures.
