

Published on Kitchen Gardeners International (<http://kgi.org>)

Home > Pam Warhurst: How We Can Eat Our Landscapes

Pam Warhurst: How We Can Eat Our Landscapes

Wed, 05/01/2013 - 14:33 -- Roger Doiron

Pam Warhurst cofounded Incredible Edible^[1], an initiative in Todmorden, England dedicated to growing food locally by planting on unused land throughout the community. I had the pleasure to meet Pam and her fellow subversive plotters last fall on my way back from a conference in Ireland. They're not only a dedicated group, but a fun one too.

In her TED talk, she makes an excellent case for rethinking how public spaces can be used for the greater public good through edible landscaping. Watch and be inspired:

Image (optional):

